The wind blows a chill into Delaware today! We know the season has changed. Now that it is November, we look ahead to the season of days getting shorter. The early darkness reminds us to take a break from a long summer and get to bed a little earlier. I personally enjoy when I get to throw an extra blanket on the bed and feel enveloped by its warmth.

With the change in seasons we have two wonderful holidays to celebrate! Please take time to honor the Veterans in your lives this November 11. We are more cognizant of our armed services with wars on two fronts and our own country on high alert due to terror threats. Celebrate those keeping us safe during this tumultuous time.

While preparing your Thanksgiving wishes this year, what do you include? If you read this newsletter, you walked to a mailbox to get it, or received it electronically. You work, volunteer, or donate money to us! We celebrate our homes and the warmth they bring us now that the air is chilly. We celebrate the food that is on our tables. We are appreciative of our livelihood. It brings us great joy to go to work and be helpful to others.

As we give thanks we ask you to include giving. You give to those who don't have a home, food on the table, those needing transportation and medical care. Thank you for the giving of your time to the young, so they will be prepared to learn to read, the elderly so they will continue to stay active. Giving so we all have a full heart as we celebrate, however we choose. Thank you for giving.

Pass it on!! Ann Gorrin

About Us

Our mentors provide our "Littles" (youth or teen) with support, counsel, and friendship. They are good listeners who care and want to help youngsters bring out their strengths that already exist. Mentors act as role models, confidants and advocates, but a mentor does not have to be an expert. They only need to be a trusted adult who a youth can talk to. A mentor can be the turning point in a child or teen's life!
